Deadlines for Insurance divestments extended

- Divesting control (> 50% of shares) of a business qualifies as divestment for EC. At that stage ING will deconsolidate the business, and remaining interest can be sold down over 2 or 3 years.
- Acquisition ban, price leadership ban lifted once > 50% of each Insurance business is completed.

We remain committed to completing the restructuring as quickly as possible, however these deadlines give us more flexibility given the challenging environment.
WestlandUtrecht to be combined with new NN Bank

- Operations of WestlandUtrecht Bank will be merged with the recently created NN Bank
- Combination will accelerate the strategy of NN Bank, which will grow to create a new mid-sized bank in the Netherlands under the strong Nationale-Nederlanden brand
- NN Bank will offer a range of financial products, including:
  - mortgages
  - savings accounts
  - bank annuity products (banksparen)
  - investments
  - consumer insurance products
  - consumer credit
  - Core retail insurance products of NN Life and P&C products
- NN Bank will have access to NN’s 2.5 million retail customers, and an integrated multi-channel distribution platform with more than 2000 independent financial advisors and 90 tied agents, as well as direct distribution through internet and telephone

- EUR 2.6 bln of WUB’s mortgage portfolio to transfer to NN Bank. Remainder to be run down over time
- ING Bank will inject EUR 350 million of capital in NN Bank. An additional EUR 120 million will be injected if necessary prior to divestment to ensure a Tier-1 ratio of at least 12% for NN Bank in 2015
- ING has agreed to target market shares on new production for mortgages and consumer credit until 2015 to ensure NN Bank has sufficient scale at the time of the divestment of Insurance Europe
- NN Bank to become self-funding through growth in savings and bank annuity products, supplemented by capital markets funding. A maximum of EUR 2.7 bln in funding can be provided by ING at separation and that must take the form of marketable securities
- ING Bank commits to support the development of NN Bank through caps on new mortgage production, free access to ATMs for NN Bank credit card holders, and other measures
ING remains committed to repaying the Dutch State as quickly as possible and will accelerate payments if this is prudent under the prevailing economic circumstances.
Behavioural Commitments and Appeal Process

• Acquisition ban and price leadership bans extended to 18 November 2015, or until >50% of each of the Insurance businesses have been divested, if earlier

• Terms of price leadership ban adjusted:
  • Price leadership ban will no longer apply to the Netherlands
  • >5% market share (non ING Direct): ING can not be among the top 3 in terms of pricing for standard retail products
  • ING Direct EU: ING can not be the market leader measured against the 10 largest competitors\(^1\)

• Ban on calling hybrids extended until 18 November 2014 or until State is repaid, if earlier:
  • EC has given permission for ING to call the EUR 1.25 billion hybrid outstanding from ING Verzekeringen NV, which has a change of control clause that would be triggered by the divestment of Insurance Asia
  • ING intends to call the above hybrid on 21 December 2012

• This agreement has been approved by the EC and will replace the EC’s decision dated 11 May 2012, so ING has withdrawn its appeal against the earlier decision

\(^1\) New terms will come into effect three months after the EC decision. Until then 2009 terms continue to apply
Wrap-up

- We remain committed to executing the restructuring plan to create stand-alone banking and insurance companies, and we will continue the momentum we have demonstrated in recent years.

- Today’s agreement increases flexibility for ING to complete its agreed restructuring plan, taking into consideration the current market environment.

- ING is pleased that a solution has been found for the sale of WestlandUtrecht Bank, creating a new mid-sized competitor in the Netherlands under the NN brand.

- ING remains committed to repaying the State as quickly as possible and will accelerate payment if prudent under the prevailing economic circumstances.
