1 Introduction

In September 2009, the Dutch Banking Association (NVB) published the Banking Code (Code Banken). The Banking Code lays out the principles for Dutch banks in terms of corporate governance, risk management, audit and remuneration.

The Banking Code is a form of self-regulation that took effect on 1 January 2010 on a ‘comply or explain’ basis, and was drawn up in response to a report entitled ‘Restoring Trust’ (‘Naar herstel van vertrouwen’), published in April 2009 by the Advisory Committee on the Future of Banks (Adviescommissie Toekomst Banken) in the Netherlands.

The Banking Code applies to all activities in the Netherlands performed by banks that are in possession of a banking licence granted under the Financial Supervision Act (Wet op het financieel toezicht (Wft)), irrespective of whether they perform their activities in the Netherlands or in another Member State, and irrespective of whether those activities are performed by a branch.

Accordingly, ING applies the Banking Code within the following legal entities that hold a Dutch banking license:
• ING Bank N.V.
• ING Direct N.V.
• Bank Mendes Gans N.V.
• WestlandUtrecht Bank N.V.

Banks that are part of a group can apply parts of the Banking Code at group level or on a consolidated basis. The Management Board Banking has decided to apply the corporate governance principles of the Banking Code at the consolidated level, i.e. for the Management Board Banking and Supervisory Board of ING Bank N.V. The remuneration principles, insofar as they relate to executive remuneration, also apply to the members of the Executive Board of ING Groep N.V. Other principles relating to risk management (including the product approval process), customer due care, business principles and remuneration are or will be implemented for all entities in the ING banking organisation for which ING has management control.

In this booklet ING reports on how the principles of the Banking Code are applied by ING Bank (including ING Direct N.V., Bank Mendes Gans N.V. and WestlandUtrecht Bank N.V.). ING Bank strongly supports the principles of the Banking Code as an important step by the banking sector to regain trust, ensure stability and protect the interests of our stakeholders. Regaining trust requires a sustainable approach and continuous attention. Following the significant steps taken to comply with the principles of the Banking Code in 2010, 2011, 2012 and 2013, ING has continued this effort over the financial year 2014. As an international bank with global activities, ING Bank has taken its entire operational environment into account when applying the principles of the Banking Code. ING Bank recognizes that complying with these principles will be an on-going process.

1 For ING Groenbank N.V. no separate impact assessment has been made, since all activities are managed through the Domestic NL organisation of ING Bank N.V.

Implementation by ING

ING Bank applies this principle. The composition of the Supervisory Board of ING allows the board to fulfil its tasks properly. The Supervisory Board consists presently of eight members. The diversity in the composition of the Supervisory Board is among others reflected in, gender, age and professional background. The broad diversity in professional background of the members of the board ensures the complementary profile of the board. The Supervisory Board acts as a collegial body. While decisions are formally taken by majority, the board in principle acts on a consensus basis. All members of the Supervisory Board except one meet the independence criteria as laid down in the Dutch Corporate Governance Code. Each year the Supervisory Board performs a self-assessment, a.o. on the composition of the Board. Moreover, in the context of balancing all statutory requirements and the overall profile of the Supervisory Board, the Supervisory Board aims at adding a third female member to the Supervisory Board. The Charter of the Supervisory Board of ING Bank N.V. has been amended in accordance with this principle.

Implementation by ING

ING Bank applies this principle. The number of Supervisory Board members of ING is sufficient to fulfil the tasks of the Supervisory Board and its committees. Each year the Supervisory Board assesses whether it still consists of a sufficient number of members - taking into account the various committees within the Supervisory Board - to properly perform its function.

Implementation by ING

ING Bank applies this principle. Each Supervisory Board member follows a tailor-made introduction programme after his/ her appointment to become better acquainted with ING and his/her role as a Supervisory Board member. ING introduced a regular Knowledge Day for Supervisory Board members to acquire additional in-depth knowledge regarding general developments in the financial market, customer care, commercial activities, risk management and regulatory developments. In 2014 trends in economy, regulatory, technology and customer behaviour, as well as innovation and predictive analyses, were among the topics discussed during the Knowledge Day. In addition, cybercrime, Basel III regulation, Dutch compensation rules, implications of SEPA and European Banking Supervision as well as a visit to ING Bank Slaski have been part of the Permanent Education programme for the Supervisory Board. The bank's function in society and interests of all stakeholders are taken into account by the Supervisory Board in performing its duties.
ING Bank applies this principle. In order to support the Supervisory Board members in assessing the main aspects of the bank’s overall policy in order to form a balanced and independent opinion about the basic risks involved, risk management is a key topic in the Supervisory Board introduction programme and the Permanent Education Programme. In addition to the Permanent Education Programme, individual Supervisory Board member expertise is also addressed in the annual self-evaluation of the Supervisory Board and in the individual profile for the appointment of new Supervisory Board members.

This principle has been laid down in the Charter of the Supervisory Board of ING Bank N.V. In 2014 one new Supervisory Board member was appointed to the Supervisory Board. Next to the general Supervisory Board profile, an individual profile was used in the selection, which was based on expertise that was complementary to the current Supervisory Board.

For more information on the Supervisory Board profile, Go to www.ing.com.

ING Bank applies this principle. As part of the process to fill the vacancy of chairman of the supervisory board, an individual profile shall be drawn up that also focuses on the bank’s requirements in terms of expertise and experience in relation to the financial sector and familiarity with the socio-economic and political culture and the social environment of the bank’s main markets.

ING Bank applies this principle. The members of the Supervisory Board of ING are sufficiently available and accessible to fulfil their tasks. The members of the Supervisory Board availability is a.o. reflected in the attendance lists of the Supervisory Board meetings. In 2014 on average 98% of the Supervisory Board members were present at the Supervisory Board and committee meetings. Outside these meetings various topics are discussed through e-mail or by phone or individual Supervisory Board members visit the ING offices upon request or on their own initiative. All members of the Supervisory Board also have an ING e-mail address.

ING has amended the Charter of the Supervisory Board.
2.1.7 Each member of the supervisory board shall receive suitable compensation for the amount of time that he or she spends on supervisory board activities. This compensation shall not depend on the bank’s results.

ING Bank applies this principle. The compensation of Supervisory Board members of ING does not depend on the bank's results. Information on remuneration of the Supervisory Board will be disclosed in ING’s remuneration report 2014. Go to www.ing.com.

2.1.8 The chairman of the supervisory board shall organise a programme of lifelong learning, with the aim of maintaining the expertise of the supervisory board directors at the required standard and improving their expertise where necessary. The learning programme shall cover relevant developments at the bank and in the financial sector, corporate governance in general and in the financial sector in particular, the duty of care towards the client, integrity, risk management, financial reporting and audits.

Every member of the supervisory board shall take part in the programme and meet the requirements of lifelong learning.

2.1.9 The assessment of the effectiveness of the lifelong learning referred to in principle 2.1.8 shall be part of the annual evaluation performed by the supervisory board.

ING Bank applies this principle. The Permanent Education Programme for the Supervisory Board is one of the subjects in the yearly self-assessment performed by the Supervisory Board. The Charter of the Supervisory Board of ING Bank N.V. has been amended accordingly.

2.1.10 In addition to the supervisory board's annual self-evaluation, the functioning of the supervisory board shall be evaluated under independent supervision once every three years. The involvement of each member of the supervisory board, the culture within the supervisory board and the relationship between the supervisory board and the executive board shall be part of this evaluation.

ING Bank applies this principle and has amended the Charter of the Supervisory Board of ING Bank N.V. accordingly. Annually, the functioning of the supervisory board is evaluated, while the 2014 self-assessment took place under external assistance.

Implementation by ING

ING Bank applies this principle. Per August 2009 a Risk Committee of the Supervisory Board has been installed. On a quarterly basis the Risk & Capital Management report is discussed in the Risk Committee and subsequently in the Supervisory Board.

The risk appetite statements are also discussed in the Risk Committee and subsequently in the Supervisory Board. The Charter of the Supervisory Board of ING Bank N.V. and the Risk Committee have been amended accordingly.

For more information on Risk Management, see Chapter on Risk Management in ING’s Annual Account section in the Annual Report.
3 Executive Board

3.1 Composition and expertise

3.1.1 The executive board shall be composed in such a way that it is able to perform its tasks properly. Complementarity, a collegial board and diversity are preconditions for the executive board to perform its tasks properly.

3.1.2 Each member of the executive board shall possess a thorough knowledge of the financial sector in general and the banking sector in particular. Each member of the executive board shall have thorough knowledge of the bank’s functions in society and of the interests of all parties involved in the bank. In addition, each member of the executive board shall possess thorough knowledge so that he or she is able to assess and determine the main aspects of the bank’s overall policy and then form a balanced and independent opinion about the risks involved.

3.1.3 The chairman of the executive board shall organise a programme of lifelong learning, with the aim of maintaining the expertise of the executive board directors at the required standard and improving their expertise where necessary. The learning programme shall cover relevant developments at the bank and in the financial sector, corporate governance in general and in the financial sector in particular, the duty of care towards the client, integrity, risk management, financial reporting and audits.

Implementation by ING

ING Bank applies this principle. The Management Board Banking is composed in such a way that it is able to perform its tasks properly. Members of the Management Board Banking have various backgrounds and areas of expertise in banking, finance or risk management. Therefore, in addition to the current composition of the Management Board Banking, a Chief Operations Officer (“COO”) has been appointed as a member of the Management Board Banking per 1 May 2014 to drive operational excellence across the Bank. The Management Board Banking recognizes the importance of diversity within the Management Board Banking and considers this as a clear priority. Therefore, in addition to the current composition of the Management Board Banking, a Chief Operations Officer (“COO”) has been appointed as a member of the Management Board Banking per 1 May 2014 to drive operational excellence across the Bank. The Management Board Banking recognizes the importance of diversity within the Management Board Banking and considers this as a clear priority. The Management Board Banking is committed to continue encouraging diversity through the implementation of the talent management programme. The requirements on the composition of the Management Board Banking are laid down in the Executive Board Profile that can be found on www.ing.com. The Management Board Banking acts as a collective body and strives to take decisions on a consensus basis.

Implementation by ING

ING Bank applies this principle. Members of the Management Board Banking have various backgrounds and areas of expertise in banking, finance or risk management. Please go to www.ing.com to find the Management Board Banking members’ individual profiles. The requirements on composition and competence of the Management Board are included in the Executive Board Profile that can be found on www.ing.com. Furthermore board members are subject to a “fit and proper”-test by De Nederlandsche Bank and since 4 November 2014 the European Central Bank in order to ensure that the composition of the Management Board Banking is sufficient for the proper fulfilment of its tasks.

On a regular basis the Supervisory Board evaluates the functioning of the individual members of the Management Board Banking.

Implementation by ING

ING Bank applies this principle. A collective Permanent Education (“PE”) Programme for the members of the Management Board Banking exists. The PE Programme covers the following main themes (i) developments at the Bank and in the financial sector, (ii) corporate governance in general and in the financial sector, (iii) duty of care towards the client, (iv) integrity, (v) risk management, (vi) financial reporting and (vii) audits. The programme is organised to provide collective Management Board Banking PE sessions at least on a quarterly basis. Thought leaders and experts are invited to educate on various topics. Topics that have been included in the 2014 collective sessions cover amongst others The Duty of Care Towards the Client, Integrity, Risk Management and Financial Reporting. Individual training needs and sessions differ per board member. There are also presentations during regular board meetings which contribute to the Board’s general education, e.g. on various content related topics.
Implementation by ING

ING Bank applies this principle and has amended the Charter of the Management Board of ING Bank N.V. accordingly. See Principle 3.1.3 for more details. Expertise of the Management Board is addressed in the annual assessment of the functioning of the Management Board members.

Implementation by ING

Every member of the executive board shall take part in the programme referred to in 3.1.3 and meet the requirements of lifelong learning. They have to satisfy this condition in order to sit on the executive board.

The supervisory board shall ascertain whether the members of the executive board continue to fulfil the expertise requirements developed by De Nederlandsche Bank [the Dutch central bank].

Implementation by ING

Each year, the bank shall indicate in its annual report in what manner it implemented principles 3.1.3 and 3.1.4.

Implementation by ING

Taking into account the risk appetite approved by the supervisory board, the executive board shall ensure a balanced assessment between the commercial interests of the bank and the risks to be taken.

Implementation by ING

Within the executive board one member shall be responsible for preparing the decision-making with regard to risk management.

This member of the executive board shall be involved, in a timely manner, in the preparation of decisions that are of material significance for the bank as regards the risk profile, especially where these decisions may result in departure from the risk appetite approved by the supervisory board.

Risk management shall also include a focus on the interests of financial stability and on the impact that systemic risk could have on the risk profile of the bank.

Risk management shall also include a focus on the interests of financial stability and on the impact that systemic risk could have on the risk profile of the bank.
The member of the executive board who is responsible for preparing the decision-making with regard to risk management may combine his or her function with other focus areas, on the condition that he or she does not bear any individual commercial responsibility for the commercial task areas and operates independently from those areas.

Implementation by ING

is a platform for the CRO and the Chief Financial Officer (CFO), along with their respective direct reports, to discuss and decide on issues that relate to both the finance and risk domains. As part of all this, the CRO is closely involved in risk matters and decisions that may have a material impact on the bank. He is also member of the Global Credit Committee Policy (GCCP), which discusses and approves policies, methodologies and procedures related to credit, country and reputation risks within ING Bank and the Global Credit Committee – Transaction Approval (GCCTA), which discusses and approves transactions that entail taking credit risk above a certain threshold.

As an example how ING’s Risk management includes a focus on the interests of financial stability and on the impact that systemic risk could have on the risk profile of the bank, ING complements its regular standardized risk reporting with (ad hoc) stress tests. A stress test is an instrument to check whether a financial institution can withstand specific negative events or economic changes. More specific, stress testing examines the effect of exceptional but plausible events on the capital and liquidity position of the financial institution and provides insight in which business lines and portfolios are vulnerable to which type of scenarios.

Several stress tests are conducted, both scheduled and ad hoc, both in the form of sensitivity or scenario analysis, either for a specific risk type or for the bank or insurance company as a whole. The stress test can represent various economic situations from mild recession to extreme shock. In addition to regulatory required stress tests such as those from De Nederlandsche Bank and ECB, several ad hoc tests have been conducted.

For further information on Risk Management, see Chapters on Risk Management in the ING Annual Report. Go to www.ing.com.

Implementation by ING

The CRO in the board does not combine his role with any commercial focus areas.
3.2 Tasks and working methods

3.2.1 In all of its actions, the bank’s executive board shall ensure that it carefully considers the interests of all of the parties involved in the bank, such as the bank’s clients, its shareholders and its employees. These considerations shall take into account the continuity of the bank, the environment in society in which the bank operates and legislation, regulations and codes that apply to the bank.

3.2.2 Maintaining a continued focus on its clients’ interests is a necessary precondition for the continuity of the bank. Without prejudice to the principle formulated in 3.2.1, the executive board shall ensure that the bank always treats its clients with due care.

The executive board shall see to it that the duty of care for the client is embedded in the bank’s culture.

Implementation by ING

ING Bank applies this principle. This principle is reflected in the Charter of the Management Board of ING Bank N.V.

Stakeholder engagement has always been an important element of ING’s overall corporate strategy.

We continuously listen to different constituencies, the most important of which are customers, employees, supervisors, shareholders, civil society organisations and citizens and regulators. We seek feedback from our stakeholders on different issues and try to engage in a constructive dialogue. This enables us to learn which issues are most important to them and how we can best align the interests of our business with theirs.

Rather than having one-off consultations around specific topics, we prefer to take an integrated approach towards stakeholder engagement. This means that we have an ongoing dialogue about our role in society, our products and services, our business performance and other issues. This is done at both the business unit and Group level.

The duty of care for customers is embedded in ING Bank’s strategy, and its values, policies, procedures, communication, marketing and training. Customer focus is also a key element of the Banker’s Oath that all employees shall take in 2015.

ING is continuously enhancing its Customer Care, based on, amongst others, customer feedback. Worldwide an ING Customer Suitability programme has been running since 2010. The main objective of this programme is to globally and structurally assess existing products, services and advice processes available to Retail customers, Small and Medium Enterprises and Mid-Corporate customers.

Internally ING ensures that continuous training programmes - to emphasise the importance of customer centricity to its employees - are provided.

ING has defined Customer Golden Rules. These Customer Golden Rules are five principles which ensure that we consistently provide customers with the right products and services, at the right price and at the right time in their life, in the right way. The Customer Golden Rules are an integrated part of the Product Approval and Review Process (‘PARP’).

Customer Care is being monitored and findings acted upon, for example the Complaints Handling processes, Net Promoter Score (this is a tool to measure customer satisfaction) and employee engagement survey, referred to within ING as Winning Performance Culture Survey (“WPC”).

For example, a recent review by Financial Markets of the sale process of structured notes to non-sophisticated clients has led to changes in the selection of external distributors and in the disclosure of fees.

ING Domestic Bank Netherlands has embedded the concept of “Customer interest centrally” in everything they do” (in Dutch:
Implementation by ING

“Klantbelang Centraal” or “KBC”) by means of an integral approach, covering all the main aspects of the organisation, from products and services to remuneration and controls, and from internal awareness to external dialogue.

Recent examples in ING Domestic Bank Netherlands of KBC-embedding and monitoring - include:

• The KBC Monitor:
  Yearly ING Domestic Bank Netherlands formulates its ambition and monitors the realisation of KBC by means of this tool. Twice a year the KBC Monitor measures scores on these indicators:
  • Vision and Strategy;
  • Products;
  • Suitability of Advice;
  • Culture, Behaviour & Management;
  • Complaints, Arrears Management and, Investment Services.
  The KBC Monitor measures the extend of embedding of KBC within ING Domestic Bank Netherlands.

• The KBC Self Analysis (KBC Zelfanalyse):
  In the process of performing this yearly Self Analysis new possibilities and risks for KBC embedding are being identified. Based on the outcomes, conclusions are drawn, enhancements formulated and ambitions are adjusted, if necessary. This provides a complete picture of the extent to which the ambition regarding KBC is being realised within ING Domestic Bank Netherlands, and provides input for new improvement activities to be formulated.

To empower people to stay a step ahead in life and in business, ING Domestic Bank offers its customers various new tools, to stay (or become) “financially fit”. For example:

• The Financially Fit Indicator (“Financieel Fit Wijzer”) offering the customer an overview of his financial situation and providing information on financial questions;

• Customer ratings and reviews: Customers of ING Domestic Bank Netherlands can now evaluate ING’s products, by rating them with (up to 5) stars. So now, at ing.nl, everyone can read what our customers think of our products and services.

• The Mortgage Stress Test (“Hypotheek Stresstest”) offering the customer insight into whether the mortgage needs extra attention and, if so, what steps can be made to improve the customer’s financial situation.

• The Personal desk for next of kin: A single point of contact to support those customers experiencing death in the family.

Examples for business clients include:

• Alert for savings products with a bonus construction: The bonus interest is on top of a fixed interest. A customer gets a bonus interest when the amount at the end of a year is the same or higher as the amount at the beginning of the year. Customers receive an e-mail alert at the moment it is favourable for the customer to make a deposit, in order to prevent him from missing out on receiving an interest bonus.

• The online Financing Check (“Financierings-check”) which gives entrepreneurs a clear insight into those activities in their business that need attention and provides tips for further improvement. Furthermore they are offered the
3.2.3 The members of the executive board shall perform their tasks in a meticulous, expert and fair manner, taking into account the applicable laws, codes of conduct and regulations.

Each member of the executive board shall sign a moral and ethical conduct declaration. A declaration has been included in the explanatory notes to this code. This declaration is a model declaration, which means that each bank can supplement it as it deems appropriate.

3.2.4 The executive board shall ensure that the declaration referred to in principle 3.2.3 is translated into principles that form guidelines for the behaviour of all of the bank's employees.

The content of these principles shall be expressly pointed out to every new employee of the bank when he or she joins the bank by inserting a reference to these principles in the new employee's contract of employment. Every new employee shall be required to comply with these principles.

opportunity to be called by ING in order to further discuss the outcomes.

- The tool for Economic prospects (“Economische vooruitzichten tool!”): By means of this tool clients and prospects can put together their own personal report, containing all relevant economic outlooks and industry information, on the regions where their business is active.

The above mentioned examples demonstrate how ING Domestic Bank Netherlands is committed to its customers and its role in society and how it responds to society’s changing expectations by putting customer’s interest centrally long term.

Implementation by ING

ING Bank applies this principle. All Management Board Banking Members have signed the Moral and Ethical Conduct statement and the Charter of ING Bank reflects the principle. In addition in line with the legal requirement all ING senior managers in scope, including all Management Board Banking Members have taken the Banker’s Oath.

Implementation by ING

ING Bank applies this principle. The ING Business Principles cover all aspects of the moral and ethical conduct declaration. Senior management of ING Bank has endorsed our Business Principles statement. Specific reference to the ING Business Principles is included in employee contracts. Besides, various initiatives further emphasize that every employee understands how their actions and behaviours can help earn and retain customer and stakeholder trust. The ING Business Principles continue to form an integrated part of employee trainings in the so called Promoting Integrity Programme across the organisation.

More information on the ING Business Principles can be found on: http://www.ing.com/About-us/Our-stories/Features/Features/ING-launches-ING-Values.htm
4. Risk Management

4.1 The executive board – and primarily the chairman of the executive board – shall be responsible for adopting, implementing, monitoring and, where necessary, adjusting the bank’s overall risk policy.

The executive board shall propose the risk appetite to the supervisory board for approval at least once a year. Any material changes to the risk appetite in the interim shall also require the supervisory board’s approval.

4.2 The supervisory board shall supervise the risk policy pursued by the executive board.

As part of their supervision, the supervisory board shall discuss the bank’s risk profile and assess at a strategic level whether capital allocation and liquidity impact in the general sense are in line with the approved risk appetite.

In the performance of this supervisory role, the supervisory board shall be advised by the risk committee formed from the ranks of the supervisory board for this purpose.

4.3 The supervisory board shall assess periodically at the strategic level whether the commercial activities in the general sense are appropriate in the context of the bank’s risk appetite.

The executive board shall provide the supervisory board with the relevant information for this assessment in such a way that the supervisory board is able to form a sound opinion.

Implementation by ING

ING Bank applies this principle. While the Management Board Banking has a collective responsibility to manage the company, one of the Management Board Banking members has been appointed CRO who is primarily responsible for risk management.

Each year, the risk appetite is set by the Management Board Banking and submitted to the Supervisory Board for approval. Any material changes within this period are also set by the Management Board Banking and submitted to the Supervisory Board for approval.

This principle has been reflected in the Charter of the Management Board of ING Bank N.V.

Implementation by ING

ING Bank applies this principle. The Supervisory Board regularly discusses the bank’s risk profile based on Risk & Capital Management Report. This report provides a comparison of the actual risk profile (capital and liquidity) versus the approved risk appetite and the actual capital and liquidity levels.

Since August 2009 the Supervisory Board has a Risk Committee. Risk Committee meetings take place at least 4 times a year. The Risk committee prepares the discussion and the decision making by the Supervisory Board with respect to risk management.

This principle has been reflected in the Charter of the Supervisory Board of ING Bank N.V.

Implementation by ING

ING Bank applies this principle. On a quarterly basis, the Risk & Capital Management Report is provided by the Management Board Banking to the Supervisory Board. This enables the Supervisory Board to discuss and assess whether the commercial activities of the bank are appropriate in the context of the risk appetite of the bank.

Each year, the risk appetite is set by the Executive Board and submitted to the Supervisory Board for approval.

This principle has been reflected in the relevant Charters.
The executive board shall ensure that risk management is arranged adequately so that the executive board is aware in good time of any material risks run by the bank so that these risks can be managed properly.

The executive board shall take any decisions that are of material significance for the risk profile, the capital allocation or the liquidity impact.

ING Bank applies this principle. The Management Board Banking is responsible to put in place effective internal risk management and control processes and systems. The individual board members are closely involved in these processes and decisions taken by the committees for that purpose. Various risk policies, financial and non-financial risk dashboards and risk committees are in place to identify and manage material risks in an early stage. Following on the local Non-Financial Risk Committees (NFRC) that are long part of the internal risk management a Bank Non-Financial Risk Committee has been established in 2010. The Bank NFRC is comprised of members of the Management Board Banking, the heads of the non-financial risk departments and senior management. The Non-Financial Risk Committee is responsible for all risk management activities related to the following risk areas:

- Operational risk
- Compliance risks
- Legal risk
- Reputational risk

Decisions that are of material significance for the risk profile, the capital allocation or the liquidity impact of the bank are ultimately taken by the Management Board Banking or by individual board members participating in risk committees.

This principle has been reflected in the Charter of the Management Board Banking.

ING Bank applies this principle. Within the Management Board Banking the CRO is responsible for ING’s product approval and review process while business line management is responsible for execution of the process.

The product approval and review process ensures that relevant risk functions, including Legal, Compliance Risk Management, Market Risk, Credit Risk and Operational Risk Management, are involved to consider the risks and assessment of other relevant factors. Through this process new products or product modifications need to meet the requirements set by ING to drive continuous focus on the client’s interest. These requirements are ING’s guiding principles for doing business with its clients. These rules go beyond what is legally required and aim to ensure that products, services and sales practices are in line with the ING business principles.

The Policy on Product Approval and Review Process was updated in 2013 and is effective from January 2014. The policy provides a clear overview of key mandatory principles (e.g. customer suitability) and is used as blue print to challenge local procedures.

The product approval and review process is included in the Corporate Audit Services (CAS) Bank yearly audit planning. The audit activities have been determined using a risk based approach. CAS Bank informs the Management Board Banking and the Audit Committee about the results as part of the quarterly and annual reporting process.

6 Remuneration Policy

Basis

6.1.1 The bank shall implement a meticulous, restrained and long-term remuneration policy that is in line with its strategy and risk appetite, objectives and values, taking into account the long-term interests of the bank, the relevant international context and wider societal acceptance.

The supervisory board shall take this basis into account when performing their tasks in relation to the remuneration policy.

The executive board shall take this basis into account when performing their tasks in relation to the remuneration policy.

Implementation by ING

ING Bank applies this principle. The remuneration policy of ING Bank strikes a balance between interests of its clients, employees, shareholders and society at large, and supports the long-term objectives of the company.

The general principles underpinning ING’s remuneration policy are as follows:

- Create a balanced compensation mix
- Reduce variable remuneration in line with market practise
- Enhance long-term value creation
- Improve the alignment of risk, performance and reward
- Place a significant weighting on sustainable performance indicators aligned with our strategy.

The variable remuneration is linked to clear targets of which a large part are non-financial targets, e.g. operational excellence, customer focus and top employer.

The remuneration policy for the Executive Board of ING Group as proposed by the Supervisory Board has been approved by the Annual General Meeting of Shareholders (AGM) on 27 April 2010 and adjustments were approved by the AGM in May 2011 and May 2014. The remuneration policy for the Executive Board of ING Group applies in full to the members of the Management Board Banking. For more information, see the Remuneration Report in ING’s Annual Reports 2010 until 2014.

Both the charters of the Management Board Banking and the Supervisory Board reflect that the Management Board Banking and Supervisory Board continue to be committed to ensure that the execution of the remuneration policy remains to be in line with the criteria set out in this principle.
Implementation by ING

ING Bank applies this principle. The Supervisory Board has always been and will continue to be responsible for the implementation and evaluation of the remuneration policy for the Executive Board of ING Group and the Management Board Banking.

The Supervisory Board has approved the remuneration principles and policy and actively oversees the execution of the policy by the Executive Board of ING Group and the Management Board Banking e.g. by annually reviewing variable remuneration pools and individual remuneration proposals for senior management. The remuneration principles and policies applicable to all other staff in ING Bank have also been reviewed and approved by the Supervisory Board.

The Supervisory Board approves all proposals for Executive Board as well as proposals for the Management Board Banking.

A policy on welcome and retention packages as well as a policy on severance pay was reviewed in 2013 and has been cascaded through the Bank globally. The policy is approved by the Supervisory Board. Furthermore, it is ING’s policy to subject exit and welcome packages that significantly deviate from standard local practice to a strict internal review and a governed sign-off process. Retention packages are always subject to a strict internal review and sign-off process. The principle is reflected in the Charter of the Supervisory Board of ING Bank N.V.

6.2.1 The supervisory board shall be responsible for the implementation and evaluation of the remuneration policy adopted with regard to the members of the executive board.

The supervisory board also approves the remuneration policy for the senior management and oversees its implementation by the executive board.

Additionally, the supervisory board approves the principles of the remuneration policy for other bank employees.

The bank’s remuneration policy shall also comprise the policy on awarding retention, exit and welcome packages.

6.2.2 The supervisory board shall annually discuss the highest variable incomes at the bank.

The supervisory board shall ensure that the executive board assesses whether variable incomes are consistent with the remuneration policy adopted by the bank, and in particular whether they comply with the principles set out in this article.

The executive board assesses whether variable incomes are consistent with the remuneration policy adopted by the bank, and in particular whether they comply with the principles set out in this article. Furthermore, the supervisory board shall discuss material retention, exit and welcome packages, assess whether they are consistent with the remuneration policy adopted by the bank and ensure that these packages are not excessive.

In 2014 the Supervisory Board reviewed the highest variable incomes within the organization and whether the variable incomes are consistent with the remuneration policy of the bank.

The Executive Board of ING Group and the Management Board Banking review the proposed variable income for senior management within the business to ensure they are consistent with the remuneration policy of the bank. The existing senior management policy complies with the views set out in this principle.

The Supervisory Board assesses the application of the remuneration policy and principles as adopted by the Bank and executed by the Management Board Banking.

Implementation by ING

ING Bank applies this principle. The remuneration policy for the Executive Board of ING Group and the Management Board Banking is in line with the criteria described in this principle. This includes benchmarking against a peer group of major European multinationals (financial and non-financial) and setting remuneration levels below median. The total remuneration for the Executive Board of ING Group and the Management Board Banking members is therefore below the market median.

More information can be found in the Remuneration Report of the Annual Reports 2010-2014.

Implementation by ING

ING Bank applies this principle. The performance targets of each member of the Executive Board of ING Group and the Management Board Banking include measures relating to the profitability and the continuity of the bank. All variable remuneration for these Board members is conditional upon meeting performance targets. Moreover, 60% of the variable remuneration is long-term focused i.e. all cash and shares offered as part of the long-term component are subject to a 3-year tiered vesting schedule, after which a retention period follows such that all shares are retained for a period of at least 5 years (including vesting time). The variable remuneration is also subject to a “no profit – no bonus” principle.

Variable remuneration

6.4.1 The allocation of variable remuneration shall be related to the bank’s long-term objectives.

Implementation by ING

ING Bank applies this principle. According to the remuneration policy variable remuneration for the Executive Board of ING Group, the Management Board Banking and senior management is determined by performance objectives which include long-term objectives (such as Customer & Society and Strategic Change Initiatives). In addition, a significant part of their variable remuneration is long-term in nature as it is deferred over a period of three years. For the Executive Board of ING Group and the Management Board Banking this is 60% of total variable remuneration. In practice the members of the Executive Board have not received variable remuneration as of performance year 2008.

Senior management receives part of their variable remuneration in conditional shares through participation in a long-term incentive program. In addition they also defer a significant portion of their variable remuneration thereby emphasizing long term focus.

For the levels below senior management there is generally also a long-term focus, although it is possible that local arrangements may deviate (e.g. with unions or as a result of collective labour agreements).

6.4.2 Every bank shall set a maximum ratio of variable remuneration to fixed salary that is appropriate for the bank in question.

The variable remuneration per annum of members of the executive board shall not exceed 100% of the member’s fixed income.

Implementation by ING

ING Bank applies this principle. The variable remuneration in 2014 for the members of ING’s Executive Board and Management Board Banking did not exceed 100% of the member’s fixed income.

As described in our 2010-2014 Annual Reports, ING moved the remuneration for its most senior management to a more balanced mix between fixed and variable pay. For Identified Staff in general a maximum ratio of 1:1 is applied in performance year 2014. Exceptions can only be made with prior approval of the shareholder and are strictly limited to international roles and highly specialized functions. Exceptions will be reviewed annually and will only be granted if justified by market practice.

For the remainder of the organization, ING applies proper maximum ratios between fixed and variable remuneration in line with applicable regulations, including the Capital Requirements Regulation and Directive (CRR/CRD IV) and the Regeling beheerst beloningsbeleid Wft 2014.

As of 2012 ING and the Dutch labour unions agreed on a new Collective Labour Agreement under which employees will no longer receive part of their compensation in the form of variable remuneration. In a number of cases and only if justified by market practice, staff may still receive a discretionary variable award. Subsequently the remuneration for Dutch general managers has been further rebalanced with a reduced emphasis on variable remuneration. Exceptions may exist for high value specialists and senior management working in international roles.
6.4.3 Variable remuneration shall be based on the performances of the individual, his part of the business and the performance of the bank as a whole according to predetermined and assessable performance criteria. In addition to financial performance criteria, non-financial performance criteria shall also make up a significant portion of the assessment of the individual. Performance criteria shall be defined in terms that are as objective as possible in the bank’s remuneration policy.

ING Bank applies this principle. Variable remuneration for the Executive Board of ING Group, the Management Board Banking and senior management complies fully with these criteria. Performance objectives for this group include Financial, Customer & Society and Strategic Change Initiatives. This principle is also implemented throughout the banking organization as a whole.

6.4.4 When performances are assessed based on the pre-determined performance criteria, financial performances shall be adjusted to allow for estimated risks and capital costs.

ING Bank applies this principle. Employees’ individual performances are being assessed based on pre-determined performance criteria. Performance criteria for the Executive Board of ING Group, Management Board Banking and senior management will include risk objectives. Moreover, for senior management and the remainder of the organization the variable remuneration is based amongst others on financial performance. Variable cash and equity compensation will be adjusted for estimated risk and capital costs on an aggregate level. However, some local arrangements made as a result of collective labour agreements and/or arrangements with unions may deviate from this principle in which case ING must honour the existing obligations.

6.4.5 In exceptional circumstances – for example, if application of the predetermined performance criteria would result in undesired variable remuneration for a member of the executive board – the supervisory board shall have the discretionary power to adjust the variable remuneration if, in its opinion, this remuneration would have unfair or unintended effects.

ING Bank applies this principle. This power of the Supervisory Board is reflected in the Charter of the Supervisory Board of ING Bank N.V.

6.4.6 The supervisory board shall be authorised to reclaim variable remuneration allocated to a member of the executive board based on inaccurate data (whether or not the inaccurate data is financial in nature).

ING Bank applies this principle. This power of the Supervisory Board is reflected in the Charter of the Supervisory Board of ING Bank N.V. and the Bank Remuneration Framework.
